MAYOR GRANT'S PROSPECTIVE PART-NER MAKES A DISCOVERY.

nfession After Confession, Oral and Writ-ten, Showered On Him by the Young Man In Whose Pockets Were Altered Cheeks. When Michael Wineburgh, who, it is said, will have Mayor Grant as a partner when the Mayor gets out of office, came down to his office on the sixth floor of the Times building yesterday morning, he found in a part of his mail which had not been opened by John L. Wilson, his chief clerk, a letter from a man in Providence. The man complained that an advertisement, which he said he had paid for, had not appeared. Mr. Wineburgh looked through his order book, but could find no order of the kind. Then be called Mr. Wilson and showed him the letter.

Wilson confessed, it is said, that he had received the order and had endorsed the check and got the money on it. He was in trouble when he did it, he said. He had never done anything of the kind before, and he would anything of the kind before, and he would never do it again. The amount involved was only $41, and Mr. Wineburgh made up his mind to let it go. Wilson said he had friends in Mississippi and would send to them and get the money. Mr. Wineburgh told him he could not remain there as clerk. Then it struck him that maybe the clerk had papers about him belonging to the office,

"Have you got anything of mine in your pockets?" he asked.

"No. I haven't," said Wilson, buttoning up his coat.

"No. I haven't." said Wilson, buttoning up his coat.

Mr. Wineburgh insisted on knowing what Wilson had in his pockets. "Well, I haven't anything," insisted Wilson, and then he unbuttoned his coat. Sticking from his inside coat pocket were half a dozen checks. Wineburgh seized them. There was one for $200, nother for $250, another for $350, and two from which all the writing except Mr. Wineburgh's signature had been removed with some acid. All the checks bore Mr. Wineburgh's own signature, and he was a little startled. He looked at the checks and then he looked at Wilson. Wilson hung his head.

"Where did you get those checks?" demanded Mr. Wineburgh;" I never made them out for those amounts.

Wilson did not answer, "What were you going to do with them?" demanded Mr. Wineburgh.

"Nothing," answered Wilson, doggedly, and then he added: "Well, I might as well tell you all about it. I'll confess," and he began to make another confession.

"You had better put some of your confessions in writing," said Mr. Wineburgh sarcastically.

"All right, sir," said Wilson, and he sat down and began to write. Mr. Wineburgh sarcastically.

"All right, sir," said Wilson, and he had taken from Wilson had been raised from $2.50. It had been made out for a man in Omaha. The name and amount had, been crased, and it had been made payable to bearer and had then been stamped $2.00 with the paper. The $250 check had originally been made for $3, and was to go to a down Fast man. It had also been treated with acid and was made syable to bearer. The $3.50 check had not been tampered with.

By the time Mr. Wineburgh had made these discoveries Wilson was ready for him. He handed over two sheets of paper. closely written, and stood by while Mr. Wineburgh read. The paper began:

I, John L. Wilson, do swear solemnly that the following is a true and correct account of all my pseulations. I depose and say that I went into the suppley of Xr. K. Wineburgh on spt. 16, and on Nov. 71 raised a cheer tampered with a confession went on to state that he h

The confession went on to state that he had never tampered with a contract that all the checks he had raised he had deposited to the credit of Mr. Wineburgh, that he had never made a false entry in any book and that he had never taken a cent of his employer's made a false entry in any book and that he had never taken a cent of his employer's money.

When Mr. Wineburgh had finished reading, and while he was thinking what he should do with Wilson, the clerk sat down at the desk again and began writing. He finished a sheet and handed it to Mr. Wineburgh. It began roomething like the others, and then detailed how he had been short of money and had gone to a big clothing store and bought a suit of clothes, which he did not have the money to pay for. He told the proprietor who he was and asked if the amount could not be taken out in advertising. The man said it could. The confession stated that Wilson, not having credit himself with the newspaper, had used his employer's credit and money to pay for the clothes.

While Mr. Wineburgh was reading this, Wilson had been busy writing, and he handed a third confession to his employer. It was of the raising of another check. Things were coming so fast that Mr. Wineburgh was getting bewildered, and he isvited wilson to go to the police station with him. Wilson was obliging. He was turned over to a policeman, and was taken to the City Hail station. He was still in a confession to onfessions when a Sun reporter saw Mr. Wineburgh later in the afternoon.

"Wilson came to me some months ago." and Mr. Wineburgh. "He had a jot of good

SEVEN YEARS AT HARD LABOR.

John Allen Goes to Prison for Attempting to Kill His Brother-in-law.

KINGSTON, Dec. 31 .- John Allen of Marbletown, this county, was sentenced to seven years at hard labor at Clinton State prison to day for a murderous assault upon his brother in-law. William R. Greenway, in the village of Shokan a month ago. For two years past at unfriendly feeling had existed between Green way and Allen, owing to a suspicion that the former had been criminally intimate with Allen's wife. On Nov. 29 Allen, taking a double home. Being told that he had gone to Shokan on business, Allen drove toward that village on business. Allen drove toward that village and met Groenway and his daughter in a wagon coming in an opposite direction. Raising the gun to his shoulder, Allen shouted: "Pull out. I'm going to shoot you," and immediately fired.

His unsteady and excited aim was all that saved a deliberate murder. Allen said that if he had killed Greenway he would have been satisfied to die the next minute. The prisoner was ably defended by ex-Congressman D. M. DeWitt and Alva K. Newomb. The defence was temporary insanity, counsel claiming that at the time of the shooting Allen was impelled by an uncontrollable impulse to kill Greenway. In pronouncing sentence Judge Clearwater said:

"The jury.with excellent judgment, brushed saide the defence of temporary insanity interposed, and justly convicted the prisoner of the crime committed. The excuse that you were maddened by imputations against the chastity of your wife, so far as the evidence here discloses, was unsustained."

Allen's father has recently fell heir to about $40,000 by the death of a relative in Brooklyn.

DEBBIE ARONSON FOUND. She is One of the Two Girls Whom Mrs.

Rathkopski is Accused of Abducting. Little Debbie Aronson was found on Friday night by Detective Haggerty. She had been missing from her home, 202 Ludlow street, since Christmas night when, with her companion. Lillie Brown of 148 Essex street, she was lured by Mrs. Jetta Rathkopski to her rooms on Division street. Mrs. Rathkorski is now under bail for abducting the girls. Being sfraid to go home Debbie had spent most of straid to go home Debbie had spent most of the time since Christmas wandering about the streets, though she was traced to several low resorts on the lowery. She went to a ball at Walhalia Hail on Tuesday night, where she met Mex Schlaneky of 57 Bayard street. After the ball he took her to the Transit Hotel in Canal street. The girl was found at Broome street and the Bowery. She confirms Lillie's story of Christmas night, and her account of the Tuesday dance led to the arrest of Schlansky. He admittied his guilt and was held at Essex market Court vesterday in $3,000 ball. Bebble was committed to the care of the Gerry society.

ALBANT, Dec. 31 .- The Attorney-General has handed down an opinion on the application of the State Commission in Lunacy to compel the Brunswick Home, a corporation located in Amityville, Suffolk county, for the care of Amityville. Suffolk county, for the care of idiots, epileptics, and persons of unsound mind, to procure a license from the Commission or go out of business. The Attorney-General holds that the corporation is violating toth the criminal and civil laws of the Stato: that the jurisdiction of the Commission is complete, and that the Home must procure a license or that an action will be begun to restrain it from doing business.

The opinion is a most important one, as it affects a large number of institutions for persons of unsound mind now conducted without a license.

AN ORATORY FOR BISHOP POTTER. The Church Club Builds for Him a Private Chupel in the Sec Honec.

A new oratory has just been built in the episcopal residence of the Bishop of New York, at 29 Lafayette place. Its construction had been carried on with profound secreey, and it was not until last Friday evening that Bishop Potter knew anything of the Christmas pres-ent that was in store for him. There was formerly an altar in the see house, but when the site for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine was obtained the old altar was removed from the Bishop's residence and was placed in the Leake and Watts Orphan Asylum, which has been serving since that time as the pro-cathedral of the diocese.

This private chapel, which was presented resterday, is the gift of certain members of the Church Club. Some weeks ago each member of the club received a letter from the commit tee who originated the idea, suggesting that an oratory, to be presented during the Christ-mas octave to Bishop Potter, would be a suitable token of the esteem in which the Bishop of an oratory, to be presented during the Christmas octave to Bishop Petter, would be a suitable token of the esteem in which the Bishop of New York is held by the club. Responses to these letters were numerous, and accompanied, in each instance, by subscriptions. Necessary funds having been secured, a vacant room on the second floor of the Bishop's house has been transformed into a handsome oratory after designs by Cox & Bons of London and New York, which firm restored the famous oratory in Lambeth Falace.

The room devoted to the chapel is lofty, long, and narrow. Its walls are freezeed in soft red tints. From a match-board of grained oak rises the dado in dark plain color, above which is an ornamented border picked out in red, white, and blue. Beyond is a field of light red in which Christian symbols in darker shades are painted, while in the frieze yunning around the four walls is insertised in Latin, in decorative letters, the 134th Fasim. There is but one window in the room, which has been filled with white ornamental oppleacent glass, from the midst of which a golden jewelled cross is seen. Beneath the window is an altar of quartered oak atanding upon, a base, which is pertity covered by a carpet of a church pattern. In its design the altar is rich, but not ornate. Grooved columns at the corners, terminating in carved capitals, support the upper portion or frieze upon which the mensa rests. On the face of the altar is an oblong sunken panel surrounded by carved mouldings. From a c. rved I H S in the centre of the panel spring rays which are picked out in gold. In the middle of the wooden mensa, the super-altar is inserted, a marble slab, inclead with five crosses. Running the whole length of the altar is nearly first the panel spring rays which are picked out in gold. In the middle of the wooden mensa, the super-altar is inserted, a marble slab, inclead with five crosses. Running the whole length of the altar on an analysis of the chapel is fixed the credence bracket, upon which stand all the sacramental ve

We have collected an assortment of Muslin Underwear such as has never before been shown in this city, including all the latest styles, dainty and charming designs, many of which have been made expressly for this occasion.

Our cheapest goods, so far as fit and finish are concerned, are quite as good as the most expensive, and we use only the most reliable grades of muslin. In addition to all the above advantages we sacrifice absolutely all profit, and the goods are all offered you at a large loss to us, and in many cases for less than the cost of the materials
